THE SEASON

The football season which closed on Thanksgiving, was not as successful as might have been wished, when gauged by the standard of victories won, but in many respects it might have been much more unsatisfactory. The record of four defeats, one victory ane one no-score tie does not tell the entire story. At the beginning of the season there was a dearth of football material, especially that which was seasoned. Of the thirteen men who played in the first game, only four had had previous experience, but two of them had played at P. C. in regular positions. Several new men turned out that never had played before, and while they were willing to work, nevertheless much time had to be spent in teaching the fundamentals of the game that should have been devoted to developing team play. These men naturally did not show up to advantage till late in the season, but will make strong additions to next year's team. Only one man will be lost from the team by graduation, so that if all the others return next fall the 1914 team should be much stronger than this one. We will be able to meet the experienced players of the larger schools on a much more even footing. With the exception of the second game with Chemawa, the local team made a good showing and steadily improved during the season. The "fighting spirit" was always in evidence, and the best exhibition of it was during the last five minutes of the game in which Pacific lost by the largest score of the season. This team spirit was the kind which can turn a seeming defeat into a real victory.

THE TEAM

Arthur Benson, Capt., "Q", Left tackle. Benson was the mainstay of the team all through the season, good at making holes in the opposing line for his backs to charge through, a terror to his opponents on defense. When our Capt. got his blood warmed up, and started swirging his arm in a circle over his head with his characteristic war cry "Let's go, let's go!" there was always "something doing." He was handicapped part of the year on account of bruises, but should be a tower of strength next year. Capt. elect.

Floyd Bates, "Q", Left end. "Bats" was a new man who showed up well toward the end of the season. He was shifted from tackle to end about the middle of the season and is learning rapidly. He showed lack of experience in making interference and catching forward passes, but has plenty of nerve and is good at breaking up opposing plays. He ought to make a good player next year.

Dale Butt, "Q", Left half back. Dale is good at carrying the ball, but poor at making interferance for a runner. He makes good forward passes and catches passes well, but his best point is his ability to pick holes in the line when running with the ball. This enabled him to get through and make the lone touchdown of the season in the game with the Newberg firemen. He needs to improve in tackling and running interference to make a well rounded player.

Frank Colcord, "Q", Quarter back. "Frankie" showed more rapid improvement at his position than any other player. His lack of experience made the pivotal position especially hard for him, but he developed a real aptitude for figures, and toward the last ran the team well. He has one weak point, namely, tackling. He is a good punter and drop kicker and is the best broken field runner on the team. He is also good in running interference. His experience this year ought to make him a better field general next year.

Robert Dann, "Q", Left guard. Notwithstanding his English origin and training Dann showed ability to master the game. He did what few men have done,—played in the first game he ever saw. Starting the season as a sub. he soon learned the game enough to hold down a regular place in the line and when Capt. Benson was moved from guard to tackle the "Briton bold" was ready to take his place. He soon overcame his early feeling of timidity and became an aggressive player. His bristling moustache was a terror to his opponents and probably helped him make holes in the line. He needs to learn to play lower in the line, and to tackle lower. He ought to show up well next year.

Lloyd Edwards, "Q", Center. "Pluto" was by far the most "brilliant" player on the team this season. His glowing locks brightened the gloom of every defeat. His happy grin popped out after every play through the line. His passes were good, very few fumbles being placed to his account. He needs more experience in worrying opposing centers and breaking up plays.

Melvin Elliott, "Q", Right end. "Dub" was our utility man. His tackling ability made him a good end, he puts up a strong game at tackle and has good speed for a half back. He is a better defensive than offensive player. He needs to improve in handling the ball and catching forward passes. Injuries kept him out of the last game of the season. This is his last year of football at P. C. as he has the honor of being the only senior on the team.

Harry Haworth, "Q", Right guard. Harry was another of the men who was playing his first football, and consequently he had much to learn about the game. He showed up well toward the last of the season. He needs another year to learn the finer points of the game. His defensive work was good.

Ross Miles, "Q", Full back. Miles, the star tackle for Salem H. S. last year, was remodeled to make a full back. His weight is his chief reliance, whether in carrying the ball through the line or as the mainstay of the secondary defense. He hits the line hard but too high. He is a good punter but needs to learn to tackle low. An injured shoulder kept him out of one of the games this season. He ought to show great improvement another year.

Ellis Pickett, "Q", Right tackle. Pickett was another member of the football primary class at the beginning of the year. He learned the game rapidly and was always anxious to learn. He has plenty of nerve but needs more practice in tackling. He is good at blocking in the line.

Delbert Replogle, "Q", Right half back. "Rep" was handicapped part of the season by injuries, but got into good shape toward the end. As an end he is one of the best tacklers on the team and is also good at receiving forward passes. At half back he runs well with the ball, although a little too slow. He runs good interference for other backs and can make forward passes when called upon. He ought to be a "star" next year.

Everett George. George was not on the team all season, but did good work in the games he was in. He did good work at full back, but he really belongs at end. He tackles well and is good at receiving passes.

Clarence Jones. "Chauncey" broke into the limelight at end this year by catching a sensational forward pass—his strong point. He needs more speed and tackling practice. The latter is his weakest point. He ought to show up to advantage with another year's experience.

Henry Keeney. "Heinie" turned out for football for the first time this fall, but a complication of circumstances kept him from participating during the entire season. He is one of the fastest men on the squad and is a good drop kicker. He has the making of a good player in him.

Alden Sanders, Clifford Vestal and Emmett Gulley turned out for practice part of the time, but not enough to show what their strong and weak points are. Gulley is a good defensive player, but does not know the game well enough to be of much value yet. These men should get into the game next year.

The last game of the season was played with Albany College on Thanksgiving day which resulted in a no-score tie. During most of the game there was a steady downpour of rain which combined with an already soaked field made anything but straight football almost impossible. Both teams were evenly matched in weight which made it an even fight throughout the greater part of the game. Pacific's goal was never in danger while Albany was forced to kick to safety several times. During the first half several forward passes were attempted but with little success owing to the condition of the field. A noticable feature of the game was the almost entire absence of fumbles.

racific kicked off in the first half and the ball was returned to Albany's forty yard line. During the first two quarters the contest was an even break for both teams. In the third and fourth quarters the advantage was with Pacific. In the last five minutes of the game P. C. gained possession of the ball and kept up a steady march down the field to their opponents five yard line where they were held for downs by a small margin. Albany then sent one play against Pacific's line when the final whistle blew. For Pacific Replogle was the most consistent ground gainer and also played a good defensive game, while Hodge and French did the best work for Albany.

Summing up the season's work, our team has done well. Although credited with more defeats than victories a good fighting spirit was shown throughout the entire season. Considering the facts that there was an extra hard schedule of games and that there were but two men who had had previous football experience around which to build a team, there is no reason to be ashamed of the showing made. Since this is the first year of football since 1911 an entirely new team had to be developed. A marked improvement in teamwork was shown in the later games, which was due for the most part to the careful training of Prof. Hawkins.

The following men received letters: Elliott R. E., Pickett R. T., Haworth R. G., Edwards C., Dann L. G., Capt. Benson L. T., Bates L. E., Colcord Q., Butt L. H. B., Replogle R. H. B., and Miles F. B. At a meeting of the letter men Arthur Benson was almost unanimously re-elected captain for the coming year. Captain Benson has had two years of football experience and plays a strong game at both offence and defence.

Basket Ball

With the football season at an end attention is now being turned to basket ball. Before starting regular practice a series of games played between the college college dormitory, academy and faculty was easily won by the academy team composed of Hinshaw and Wiley, forwards; Edwards, center; Colcord and M. Mills, guards. With the exception of Parker and Butt practically all of last years men have turned out for practice and also some very promising new material. Although too early in the season to tell exactly, Gulley will probably hold down center, while Haworth, Colcord and Marks Mills will make a hard fight for the guard positions. Replogle, Paul Mills, Hinshaw and Wood, a new man, will try out for forwards.

The "Point Elsewhere in this issue will be found an exSystem planation of the "Point System," recently adopted in Pacific College. Considering the fact that any of the "four point" offices entail as much labor, require as much ability, occupy as important a position in college life, and would do as much toward the development of a well-rounded man, as debating, oratory, etc., it would seem no more than just that credit be given for this kind of extra curriculum activities as well. While we realize that credit is given for some work outside the regular course, that does not seem a plausible reason for not giving more. In fact it ought to be a reason for granting it. It would seem to us a discrimination to give credit for one class of extracurriculum work, and refuse credit for others.

We Like It takes real courage for a man, past the Your Grit. period of wnat we commonly term young manhood, who has seen a mistake in his past life and opportunities for useful service ahead, to start in school among men who are younger than himself. We have several of this type in P. C. They may be assured that they have a hearty welcome here, and that we all admire their courage and wish them unbounded success among us.

Jt 36

A Commend- We are glad to note the attitude taken by able Spirit. the Willamette "Collegian" in a recent liquor fight at Salem. Of course, no college paper would be expected to have a different attitude, but how often do we see college men who have not the courage of their convictions sufficiently strong, so that they remain silent on such great questions. Evidently if there are such men in W. U., they are not on the "Collegian" staff.

P. M. G. A.

The Y. M. C. A. prayer meeting Wednesday, November 19, was led by Rev. Lindley A. Wells. He gave some very helpful thoughts based on the account of the rich young man who came to Jesus asking what he might do to have eternal life. The young man believed in the divinity of Christ, a fact which all who seek Him must believe as a foundation for faith; he was sincere and honest in that he knew he lacked something although he had kept all the commandments. It was the willing spirit, the spirit of sacrifice, that Jesus wanted rather than merely the young man's money.

The Thanksgiving meeting was conducted by Rev. Palmer, of the Presbyterian church, his subject being "The Grateful Heart." He said that God is grieved if we, His children, do not render Him praise. We are apt to petition much and praise little. We should praise God because of its influence on others and because it reminds us of our own blessings. Count your blessings, for wholesale praise does not mean very much. The quartette gave an appropriate selection at the close of the meeting. This quartette is composed of Messrs. McLean, Langworthy, Lewis and Gulley.

Although there has been no organized deputation work done yet this year, some of the men have been out to some of the needy places and helped in meetings. Dann, Paul Lewis, Haskins and Gulley were at Chehalem Center Sunday, November 30.

As announced by a catchy poster the Y. M. C. A. meeting December 3 was devoted to a report of the Columbia Beach Conference. First Langworthy spoke of the general impressions of the conference, being followed by Prof. Hawkins, who gave something of the personnel of the leaders and speakers of the conference. Next H. Hinshaw gave an account of the afternoon program which was given to recreation, athletics and hikes to places of interest. Hubbard then spoke of the various Bible and Mission study classes and departmental conferences. Haworth, who was to report on the addresses given, had very little time so only gave a limited report. A word from Hadley as to the value of such conferences closed the report.

Guy Needham, student secretary of Oregon and Idaho, dropped down on the Bible Study class at the Dormitory Thursday evening with the result that six fellows who had not previously intended, rushed around the next morning in time to catch the train for Salem where the Religious Leadership Conference was to be held the 5th and 6th of December. Those who attended were Elliott, Dann, Miles, Haskins, McLean and Thompson. These men occupied the Y. M. C. A. meeting December 10, by giving a very interesting report of the conference.

The Religious Meetings Committee announce that a series of meetings touching the lifework of men, is being planned. It is the intention to have these practical discussions, made by a man who is a specialist in that line. The best of local talent possible will be used, and a few outside speakers will undoubtedly be secured.

November third, Jennie DeBord, Esther Welch and Louise Hodgin, members of the missionary committee, gave a review of the missionary work and conditions in Corea, which country will be studied in the class on Missions. Mrs. Mendenhall has consented to teach the class and enough girls have enrolled to make the study very interesting.

Mr. Wells gave a very helpful talk to the girls in Y. W. C. A. November twenty-sixth.

The subject for the meeting December third was "Keeping Sunday." Gladys Hannon, the leader first gave a short sketch of the Sabbath then of the keeping of the Sabbath by the student.

Mrs. Whitely lead on the topic "Spiritual Muscle" December tenth. The lesson was taken from the first chapter of Joshua, "Be strong and of a good courage; be not affrighted, neither be thou dismayed."

Locals

One of the consuming mysteries of the month has been the why and the wherefore of the scratches on Floyd's face, since the numerous explanations do not agree in all particulars.

Thunie-"I guess I never did know anything."

A. B.—"That's like the tower of Bail." We presume that he had reference to the tower of Babel.

Lost!! A shoe! Finder please report to I. H. or Mrs. Hodgin and receive reward.

We regret to note that Erma Heacock and Mary Mills have been out of school for some time on account of sickness. Eva Campbell was also absent for a day.

Rev. T. L. Jones a minister for over forty years in Oregon and who has been holding revival services at the Methodist church here, gave a forceful and practical talk about making the right choice while a student, at the chapel hour December 16. His illustrations were cases that had passed under his own observation.

Members of the faculty made merry on Saturday, December 13. The credit for the whole day's pleasure belongs to President and Mrs. Pennington. In the afternoon the ladies met with Mrs. Pennington at her home, and spent the time with fancy work. A fishing and hunting expedition was arranged for the men, and a party of five spent the entire day on the Willamette. The day was very successful. At six-thirty in the evening President and Mrs. Pennington entertained all the members of the faculty at dinner.

Literary

A number of the girls who were interested in the organization of a literary society met and succeeded in starting such an organization ealled The Trefram Literary Society, Trefram being the Greek word for culture.

The society will meet semi-monthly on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. At present it has a membership of about twenty, which is not as large as we would like to have and we hope others will become interested and join. The following officers were elected: Lyra Miles, president; Mary Jones, vice president; Myrtle Mills, secretary; Myrtle Thomas, marshall; Ruth Crozer, editor; Miss Kenworthy, faculty advisor; Mrs. Hodgin, critic.

Two interesting and instructive programs have already been rendered. The first program included a piano solo by Alta Gumm, two humorous readings given by Miss Kenworthy which were enjoyed by all. Lois Brown gave an entertaining book review of Ibsen's Peir Gynt and this was followed by an interesting discussion of current events. A very instructive talk on the Art of Debate was given by Prof. Hawkins.

The last meeting was held in the Dormitory parlors. One of the most prominent and interesting features of the afternoon's program was a debate on the question, "Resolved that final term examinations should be abolished." The speakers on the affirmative were Lesta Cook and Rene Owen. Those on the negative were Myrtle Mills and Mildred Benson. The negative received the unanimous vote of the judges. However those present were not all conclusively convinced by the decision of the judges. Florence Kaufman gave "The Witch's Daughter" from Whittier in a very impressive manner. Another very profitable feature was a ten minute parliamentary drill.

The society extends an invitation to all girls who are interested to be present at its meetings.

The "Point System"

In the small college especially, there is danger that a particularly capable or popular student shall be chosen for so many positions in the extra-curriculum activities of the student body as seriously to interfere with his own work and rob other students of the development that they might obtain by participating in the student activities. Last year the cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. recognized this, and requested that the faculty adopt a point system that would obviate this difficulty. The matter was presented to the student body for further suggestions if they cared to make them, and then action was taken by the faculty as follows:

The extra-curriculum activities of the college are divided into three classes. Each activity that is in the first class counting four points, second class two and third class one. No student is to be allowed to carry more then seven points of extra-curriculum activities, the penalty being the loss of a semester hour credit for each point carried above seven. This ruling goes into effect with the first of next semester, but no student who now has seven points or more is to take on any more.

The activities are classified as follows:

First class, four points each, President of the Y. M. C. A., President of the Y. W. C. A., President of the State Oratorical Association, Editor-in-Chief of the Crescent, Business Manager of the Crescent.

Second class, two points each, President of the Associated Student Body, Cabinet Member of the Y. M. C. A., Cabinet Member of the Y. W. C. A., President of the Athletic Association, President of the State Prohibition Association, Treasurer of the Athletic Association, Associate Editor of the Crescent, Assistant Business Manager of the Crescent, Manager of College Athletic Teams, Debate Manager, Executive Committeeman State Oratorical Association, President and Secretary of College Oratorical Association and Secretary of College Prohibition Association when state contests are held at Pacific.

Third class, one point each, Secretary of the Associated Student Body, Treasurer of the Associated Student Body, President of the Oratorical Association, President of the Prohibition Association, Secretary of the Athletic Association, Member of the Crescent Staff, President of the Greater Pacific Club.

Concert Xmas Day

The Webber Concert Orchestra, composed of twelve high class musicians, will give a musical program at Wood-Mar Hall on the afternoon of Christmas Day. These people have a wide reputation as entertainers, and a large crowd is expected. One special feature is a banjo orchestra of eleven pieces.

They come under the auspices of the Student Body. Gladys Hannon, Daisy Newhouse, Melvin Elliott, Rae Langworthy and Henry Keeney were appointed a special committee to attend to advertising, sale of tickets, etc.

Managers Elected

At a meeting of the Athletic Association, Friday noon, December 19, managers of the athletic teams were elected as follows: Basketball in place of Paul Mills, resigned, Delbert Replogle; Baseball, Dale Butt; and Football, Ross Miles.

Exchanges

The editor of a school publication need not exclaim with the old bard, in this day of Exchanges—

"O wad some Power the giftie gie us To see oursils as ithers see us!"

The friendly criticism of his publication as viewed by others is an encouragement to eradicate the bad and increase the good in his paper.

Some who read The Crimson may not know where Brigham Young College is situated. Base ignorance? Well, perhaps, but since they don't know, how are they to tell from what city and state The Crimson hails?

The Kodak is a paper of which any High School might well be proud. Its departments are neatly arranged and well balanced.

The Oahuan gives us a glimpse of what students in other lands are doing. The articles in the November issue prove conclusively that they are alive.

The Nautilus is neat and attractive.

The Franklin Acadeny Mirror. We are glad to note the space given in your November issue to Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. notes. Would not a smaller and more uniform type improve the appearance of your paper?

There is much originality of thought and expression in the Thanksgiving number of University Life.

The Spinner. There is an excess of advertisements in comparison to your literary material. Otherwise your paper is highly commendable.

Several of the exchanges received have articles on that intangible something called "College Spirit." We read these articles with interest and then judge you, not by what they contain but by the college spirit displayed throughout your papers.

"Overloading" which may be found in The Medillite is well worth reading, as it contains some wholesome advise which applies to almost every High School and College student.

The High School Argus. Because of the attractiveness of your cover design the exchange reader invariable selects the Argus from among several other school papers. But he is somewhat disappointed upon opening it because of the "choppy" appearance of its departments. Why not include quantity as well as quality in your write-ups?

The Review. Your stories are written in a remarkably vivid and realistic manner, but your joke department contains far too many advernisements, which is no joke but certainly a serious mistake.
